NATURE-INSPIRED BATH

Calling from the homeowners' love of granite bays, Jane Shea from the Springfield, Virginia-based Shea Studio Interiors designed a bathroom full of raw, natural elements, giving the homeowners the feeling of taking a bath or shower outside.

Featuring his-and-her showers exposed to the room and to a full-view window (with a frosted treatment on the bottom half of the glass to avoid overexposure), and a drop-in tub with edges made of natural boulders, this bathroom gives the illusion of a walk in the forest.

Key elements in this project include:

- granite sinks;
- natural slate, granite, and coordinating cultured-stone surfaces;
- custom-made, knotty-cherry cabinets with knotty-pine doors (designed by Shea);
- custom-made iron accents (cabinet legs and hardware, mirror accents, towel holder).
